

Corporal Sidney Storer

No.9 Commando

In the presence of clubmates and fellow members of the police force, Constable Storer receives the good wishes of the Mayor, Councillor Geoffrey Inns, for a happy retirement

WITH 30 years' service in the police force and the war time spent as a commando behind him, Constable Sidney Storer has retired and has received a parting gift to mark his work as police club secretary at Stratford division's headquarters.

Beginning in March 1935, at Solihull, he has served at Sutton Coldfield, Rugby and county headquarters, and came to the borough 10 years ago. During the last war Mr Storer served with the No 9 Army Commando.

At Stratford he has been a motor patrol driver, but he is best known for his courteous work as the coroner's officer, a job he has done for 5½ years.

Mr Storer lives at 10 Fairfield's Walk with his wife and three daughters.
